Road block

The MBTA has completed a new boarding platform in North Wilmington, but trains continue to block Route 62 and board passengers from the street. The platform was built to ensure that emergency vehicles would not be blocked by trains across the road. Some engineers, though, have evidently not been instructed to stop clear of the crossing. This shot was taken as the 7:35 finished boarding on Friday morning.

$600k grant to help homeowners

by Brad Parmenter
Lynn Duncan, director of planning and conservation, told the selectmen during Monday's meeting what will become of the $600,675 grant that the town will receive from the Executive Office of Communities and Development.

According to Duncan the grant will be split up into three parts.

The first is to help with home improvements 25 homes "in the Silver Lake area and east and west of Route 38," said Duncan.

According to a press release, "a family of four is eligible to participate if they earn less than $38,000. Duncan explained the amount able to be earned would depend on the size of the family.

Grants will be provided for up to 100 percent of the cost of improvements, according to the release. The grant will also pay up to 50 percent of cost for an accessory apartment in accordance with the town's new by-law on accessory apartments.

The release also says, "Some funding will be set aside to address serious needs outside the Silver Lake area."

Duncan told the selectmen that the amount spent on the Silver Lake/Route 38 area for home

TM says water is safe

If you are experiencing a strange odor or taste in your drinking water, don't worry its safe. That was the message from Town Manager Michael Cairra at Monday's meeting of the Board of Selectmen.

Cairra said he had received several phone calls informing him of an "odd taste or smell in the water."

He said that the problem was being fixed by changing carbon filters at the Butters Row plant.

He said that the water might be slightly odd, but was not harmful to people.

improvements would be $34,600.

The second form of aid the grant would provide is employment assistance including funding for job training interview and resume training. Duncan said local industry is supporting this.

The third piece of the grant covers first-time homeowners. Duncan said it would aid in costs such as down payments and closings.

Early retirement plan rejected

by Brad Parmenter
Wilmington voted not to vote on an early retirement plan for the town.

The early retirement program allows leaving employees to retain varying percentages of their salary, depending on how long they have been working. The plan allows for the town to pay employees that are eligible to collect pay for remaining years to retirement. Since there is only a percentage paid, jobs that aren't replaced, theoretically save a town money.

Town manager Michael Cairra said, however, that the town chose not to implement such a plan, because at the present time it was "not in the economic best interest of Wilmington at this time."

Cairra said it would be better for the town to implement such a plan going into the new fiscal year. "It is not yet cost effective," said Cairra.

Democrat to run as write-in

A Reading Democrat has entered the race for state representative in the 21st Middlesex District, which includes Precinct 6 of Wilmington.

Tom Stohlman is running in the Sept. 15 primary as a write-in on the Democratic ballot.

The seat is presently held by Robert Krekorian, a Republican from Reading. He has no opponent in the primary. Presently there is no candidate on the Democratic ballot. Stohlman needs 150 write-in votes in the primary to have his name appear on the general election ballot in November.

"I'm in the running because I think the winner of a contested race better represents his or her constituents than a winner by default," wrote Stohlman. "I also think I can do a better job for the district."

Stohlman, a self-employed architect, lives on Mineral Street in Reading.

The grant will also cover the cost of new staff needed to implement the program. Duncan said there is enough money to cover more than a year, even though the program doesn't run long.

Duncan said the program may be implemented by Dec. 1.

She had advice for those interested.

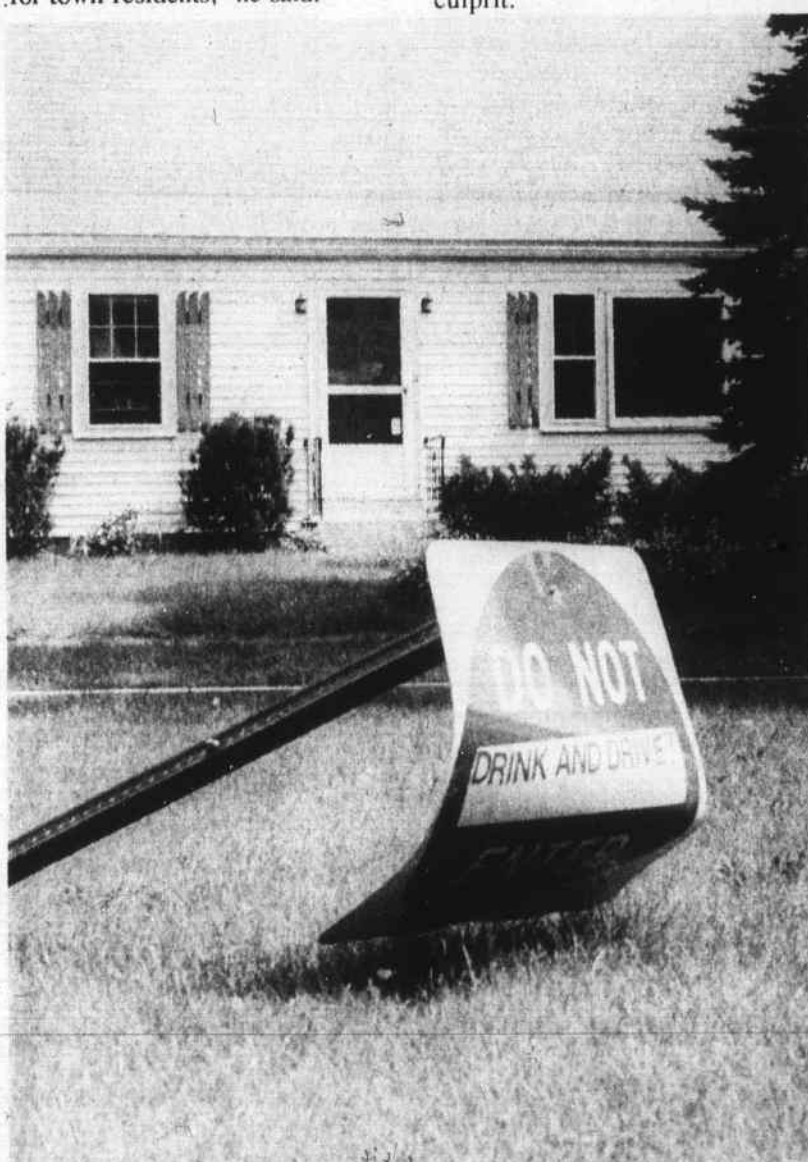

"Contact the planning office if you have questions on how this works or eligibility," she further advised. "Watch the Town Crier and for mailings."

Duncan said response to the program has been high.

"We are ready to take this program and run with it, and really help a lot of people in town."

Committeeman Daniel Ballou Jr. agreed with Duncan.

"This program will go a long way to further the quality of life for town residents," he said.

The sign said "Do not drink and drive" but maybe someone was doing just that. Anyway, the "do not enter" sign on the left side of the traffic island at the end of Nichols Street recently fell victim to someone who did not heed the sign.

Dog decision delayed

by Brad Parmenter
Dogs belonging to two separate families in Wilmington might have to leave the town depending on the selectmen's decision at their next meeting on September 14.

Selectmen held public hearings on Monday night to determine whether three dogs belonging to two respective families should be banned from town. In each case, the dogs are alleged to have attacked other animals.

The board heard testimony from alleged victims, the dogs' owners and the dog officer as well as the director of the Board of Health. Chairman Mark Haldane explained that the hearing would be informal and the dogs' innocence would be assumed until "substantial evidence" was presented by the parties making the complaint.

The first case involved two light brown pit bull terriers, one male, one female, owned by Richard Jackson and Paulette Kelleher of 79 Salem St., according to animal control officer Ellen Davis.

Davis said the male had been quarantined several times, most recently after he had been involved in an incident involving the death of another dog. Davis said she considered the dogs to be dangerous even on a lead.

"A dog shouldn't be walked in public if it isn't socialized enough. That is the owner's responsibility," said Davis.

The dogs had apparently been involved in other attacks on animals according to letters from residents to the board. During one such attack, Jackson admitted that he had to use a stick to pry his dog off another one. "When their jaws close, they lock," he said.

During one other incident a man was apparently bitten. The man was trying to break up a dog fight, according to Davis. Jackson says, however, that his dog wasn't the culprit.

"His dog bit him I saw it. (The dog) was nipping every way he could," said Jackson.

Kelleher also said her dogs weren't dangerous. "My grandchildren, who are four and two years old, play Frisbee with them."

Selectman Chester Bruce disagreed. "My son has the brother of your dog," said Bruce. "He has never bitten anyone and he's a monster. I have seen him bite through a hockey puck," said Bruce.

Jackson responded, "they are just like humans... to me."

Jackson also said that since he put up the six foot stockade fence, there have been no further incidents. He said he felt his dogs were safe with the new fence.

"I feel everyone would be comfortable if that (safety) could be guaranteed. Unless you can guarantee that I would have to vote he (pit bull) goes."

Charles Biondo, an abutter, spoke on the side of Jackson. "I feel they have done everything they can... I feel safe living in that neighborhood," he said. "I walk my dog by there everyday and never so much as hear a bang on the gate."

Davis disagreed. "Most of these incidents haven't happened on the property. What happens when they take them out again?"

Davis' recommendation surprised Bruce who said she had aggressively sought homes for animals, sometimes with her own money. If she were against the dog, he reasoned, she must have a good reason.

The case was taken under advisement by the board and will be decided at the next meeting.

The next dog in question according to Davis is a male. His female counterpart was asked by the Board of Health, according to Director Gregory Erickson, the board asked the female to leave town, because she was determined to be the aggressor in an incident involving a miniature horse owned by Dorothy Fox. The owners of the dog, John Eldredge and Kelly Welch of 23 Hopkins St. complied with that order. It was then discovered, according to Erickson, that the Board of Health has the power to have a dog put to sleep if it directly threatens public safety. The power to remove a dog from town for attacking animals rests with the selectmen, so the case was referred to them. Before it was known that the Board of Health couldn't remove a dog, according to Erickson, they had ordered that if a confirmed complaint was received about the male dog, he too would be removed.

According to Davis, she saw the dog running loose on one occasion and it was cited for not conforming to the leash law. "Mrs. Fox is worried about the safety of her horse and so am I," said Davis.

Fox explained the incident to the board. "I heard barking, so I ran out and saw my little stallion with his legs being chewed. I picked up a rock and they came for me."

Mrs. Fox said she has seen the dog in her yard four times since. William Eldredge said it was impossible for the dog to leave the yard, because as a golden retriever mix, he was too small and couldn't possibly jump the fence as the Foxes said. The owners of the dog also said they had used a heavy duty chain to secure the dog to a pole. Even so, Davis told the board that when she went to the Eldredge residence and was knocking on the door, the dog ran in from another yard. The owners maintain that once when the dog was to be quarantined, the dog officer, "burst in, knocked out the dog and dragged her off the porch. We didn't know where she was for 10 days," said John Eldredge. Davis says, however, "I would hardly knock out a dog, I love animals," she said, "to date I have not broken into someone's house knocked out their dog and not told them where I was taking it."

Davis maintains that she went there and picked up the dog in Kelly's presence. The male went easily and female fought and had to be put on a rabies pole. "I left them the care of the veterinary hospital. They knew where I brought them," said Davis.

John Eldredge says that Mrs. Fox just doesn't want them to have the dog.

"This dog may be loose sometimes that happens, said William Eldredge, but it hasn't hurt anyone."

This case will also be decided at the Sept. 14 meeting.

Lawn mowers clipped from dealer

A lawnmower dealer in North Wilmington was burglarized during the weekend. The break was discovered on Monday morning at Sanda Equipment, at the corner of Route 125 and Andover Street.

Missing were a large tractor, three smaller mowers, a battery charger, and an air compressor.

The thieves made entry by breaking a window. They then cut the lock on an overhead door, drove a truck in, and loaded up.

The break is the second at the shop. In the earlier break, a smaller mower was all that was taken.

The company, a John Deere dealer, opened this spring.

Nickerson takes part in summer work program

To many students, summertime fun means fun and sun, beaches and time off from the books. But for Tara Nickerson, a Wilmington resident attending Johnson & Wales University in Providence, participating in the Summer Work Experience Placement Program (SWEPP), means long hours, hard work and a head start on her career.

Nickerson is a retail major and this summer she is gaining valuable job experience working for American Tourister Retail Outlet in Warren, R.I.

The SWEPP Program offers a select group of business, culinary arts and hospitality students a seasonal, entry-level job at resort operations and companies throughout the country. In addition to earning an hourly wage, SWEPP students receive hands on experience in a real world environment. And when they return to Johnson & Wales in the fall after successfully completing the program, they are awarded a $1,500 scholarship provided jointly by the University and the SWEPP employer.

More than 33 companies and resorts are participating in the SWEPP Program this summer. Whether it is cooking at a Wyoming ranch, baking for guests at Mt. Ranier National Park in Washington State, barn manager at a horse ranch, or accounting at an Ocean City hotel, SWEPP meets the financial and career goals of the students while providing the employer with committed employees during the summer months.

Founded in 1914, Johnson &

Wales University is a private, coeducational institution offering undergraduate and graduate degrees in business, foodservice, hospitality and technology. Based in Providence, Johnson & Wales also maintains branch campuses in Charleston, S.C., and Norfolk, Va. and a joint venture with the University of San Martin on the island of St. Maarten in the Caribbean.

Full day nursery

Bright Start Nursery School, of North Reading, beginning its fifth year in September, has announced the addition of a full day program, planned to better serve the working parents in the community.

Openings in this program are limited. Those interested in placing a child this fall should call the director as soon as possible.

The pre-school program runs from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Optional programs include lunch and dance. These programs run from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Children who are not students at Bright Start Nursery School may also enroll in the dance program.

Bright Start is staffed by caring professionals and the children who attend learn and make new friends in a planned, well balanced pre-school environment.

Homecoming will feature "classic cars"

Tewksbury Homecoming Week-end, planned for October 2, 3 and 4, will feature a gathering of old and "classic" cars this year, the homecoming committee decided on Thursday night.

Harold MacDonald asked for and received permission to hold a show of old and "classic" cars on Sunday morning and afternoon. Admission to the show is free for the public, but car owners wishing to display their hot rods and antiques will be charged a fee of $2 in advance, or $3 at the gate.

The gathering will be held in the grassy Livingston Street state field, with cars of all ages and models on display. Cars can begin taking the field at 11 a.m.

But unlike a "cruise night" sort of show, MacDonald has planned an awards program. Trophies will be awarded for "People's Choice" and all participants will receive a metal dashboard plaque as a memento of their participation.

All proceeds from the classic car show entries will be donated to the Tewksbury Homecoming Committee, MacDonald said.

Entry forms are available by mail at: Harold MacDonald, 26 Ellington Road, Tewksbury, MA 01876.

The Tewksbury Rod and Bondo-Bucket Club is expected to put in an appearance, at the very least.

TAX PLANNING FOR DIVORCE

Everything's negotiable. People generally get divorced because they can't agree on things but a little extra effort on tax planning before the divorce can save money for both parties.

First step is to get a complete and accurate picture of each partner's finances: income, expenses of each, and assets. If assets are to be transferred, it's advisable to do it while married, so there are no tax consequences. Dividing the pension is often a difficult situation; it can be done either at the time of the divorce or at retirement. If the wife is a homemaker, she would probably do better with retirement contributions made with after-tax dollars.

Rule of thumb: alimony is deductible for the donor and taxable for the recipient. Child support isn't. And while the dependency exemption is usually claimed by the parent who has custody, it usually benefits the higher income parent more; the right to the exemption can be waived by the lower income parent for some concession from the richer one.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Please allow me a moment of your time to conduct the following unscientific survey, to which you may mail your responses to my attention, at P.O. Box 460.

If you are one of the few Americans to still have a job, would you, or would you not, inform your employer that you were leaving on two weeks sick leave through the device of a via-mail memo, without benefit of explanation, warning or a single phone call to the people you work for? Also, would you deliver said memo after — not before — you've left?

If your answer to both is no — which sanity and probity suggest is the case — how long before your boss would fire you when you had the nerve to return from oblivion with an attitude matching that of a California Valley Girl?

If your boss has any cajones, the answer is about 15 minutes and you'll find your desk blotter and coffee mug moved for you.

I like Bill Fay. He's enjoyed consistent support in this space for the reason he carefully critiqued last week. But behaving like your picture is hanging at the Wilmington Post Office is a bit demeaning to the mission of superintendent of public schools, an esteemed municipal office requiring a special commitment level.

The vacation is over Mr. Fay. This community pays you $1,667.40 a week (except when you are absent without leave) plus $300.00 a month in expenses. Questioning where in the name of Heaven you are would seem to be the oath-of-office task charged our school committee members, the stewards of our tax dollars. We working grunts couldn't take sick leave the way you did. So you're out $1,677.40 just like most of us would be out of a job if we did what you did.

If the school committee ever relents on your docked pay, it shouldn't be one minute before you cough up your excuse, which we, the public insist be done in executive session, thus preserving the privacy we all agree you are entitled to.

I think your personal "illness" is your own affair, but to suggest people have "played fast and loose" with your reputation is missing the entire point here. The only person playing fast and loose with Bill Fay's reputation is Bill Fay.

It's the lack of common courtesy which raises eyebrows. It's galling bureaucratic arrogance at a time when people have just about run out of patience.

We don't want your medical records. We just want $1,677.40 worth of weekly courtesy and professionalism, which means scrapping your memo of last week to staff members which read in part, "...I am therefore directing you to refuse to discuss. . . matters with members of the school committee. . . violation of this directive could be considered insubordination."

That's unlikely given the fact that only the school committee can charge a department employee with insubordination."

And if there's anyone on the insubordination border line I think we know who that is.

Briefly in Politics

The race for the Fifth.

For all its controversy and hype, the will-it-ever-end congressional redistricting battle of 1992 succeeded in reuniting some distant cousins separated for nearly 10 years.

Tewksbury and Lowell have always had a special affinity that people in Wilmington have never been sensitive to, so it's only the Redmen voters who appreciated the significance of the Carnation Capital being reunited with the Merrimack Valley Fifth Congressional District, from whence it came and where Lowell is the new Hub.

It's there that Lowell Republican Mike Conway was the first to announce his challenge to Incumbent Congressman Chet Atkins, who's been in the incumbent's intensive care unit since the check kiting scandal first erupted last year.

Conway, true to his style, did what he does best and got right to the point. The feisty G.O.P. stalwart, who calls himself a "Weld Republican," is the pitbull in this race who takes no prisoners. . . make that eats his prisoners.

Conway knew a good gimmick when he saw one and started passing out rubber checks — real rubber, folks — throughout the district, a spoof on Congress that attracted national media attention.

This quickly elevated Conway's status in the Republican campaign as the front runner, to the dismay of his challenger former Congressman Paul Cronin, who lost his Merrimack Valley seat to Paul Tsongas in the 70s. A victim of the Watergate backlash, Cronin made an unsuccessful political comeback bid in 1990 as a gubernatorial candidate.

But critics have charged that Cronin's greatest liability is his low key campaign style. You won't hear the barn-burning speeches from Cronin that you do from Conway. On the flip side, Cronin may be more appealing to a maturing electorate. With his horn rimmed glasses and a face that displays more years experience, Cronin clashes with the boyish, ruddy-faced Conway, a small businessman who's never held public office.

But inexperience or not, Conway is the Republican terrorist primary voters may be looking for in this angry year. They may want a party standard bearer who can charge into the general election fully prepared to joust with the Democratic nominee.

In Tewksbury, Conway has "pretty much sewn-up" the support of local Republicans, according to Republican Town Committee Chairman Greg Reynolds. The local G.O.P. leader compliments Conway for "not promising the world" like most political aspirants and being up front with an ironic campaign pledge. "He said he can't — repeat can't — bring home all the bacon, because we need to finally get rid of all the pork barrel," said Reynolds.

This race, like the congressional contest in Wilmington, has attracted widespread attention because the challengers' prospects are greater than ever before.

Many are predicting independent voters will be flocking to the Democratic ballot in September where there is greater interest with more contested races. That means the Republican candidate who wins this race is the man who can get out his vote.

25 years ago

The August 31, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The tax rate for the year had been set at $34, up $2 from that of a year ago principally caused by the 'assessment hearings' of last fall. As a consequence of those hearings, the tax bills were delayed and the town collected very little in taxes in 1966.

Valuation of property in the town for 1967 reached $98,283,000, with over $4,200,000 of this being in new buildings.

Betsy Flight Cronin, a Wilmington teacher was pictured in the lifeguard chair at Silver Lake. Mrs. Cronin was among the first women to fill that post. Also serving in that capacity, but not in the picture were Sharon Justice of Brand Avenue, a BU student and Ken Butler of West Street, a student at Northeastern.

Dorothy Wells of West Street and Christine Richardson of Whipple Road, Tewksbury were pictured working at the Lions Club Eye Clinic. The youngster being tested was Marilyn Thackery of Kelley Road.

In regard to an impasse between the planning board and the board of selectmen, Planning Chairman Dan Gillis "spoke his mind," proclaiming "They are going to run into a stone wall this time! I'm not giving in."

According to Nosey Nancy, Airman Bob Morris of Middlesex Avenue was home on 15 day leave from LaMoore Airfield in California. His friend George Summen of Thurston Avenue was home at the same time and "they had a ball."

Lionel Baldwin and Lloyd Belbin made a canoe trip down the famous Allagash River. Lionel was pictured surveying the stream and the canoe.

10 years ago

The August 25, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

The Secondary School Building Committee voted to grant a 127 day extension to the general contractor engaged in constructing a $6.5 million addition to Tewksbury Memorial High School. The move would delay the opening of the high school until Sept. 18. All other schools would open Sept. 8.

Saying that the vote placed too much authority in the hands of the town clerk and the selectmen, the State Attorney General's office disapproved a unanimous vote at the annual town meeting to raise town clerk's fees. Town Clerk Liz Carey said she could agree with the attorney general and that she was preparing the type of town meeting article his office could approve of.

Linda Barry was pictured making a fine catch for the Tewksbury Teddy's softball team which she was said to have helped to a great season.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

Help may be on the way for the 9000 disabled poor thrown off the welfare rolls by the Weld administration. Superior Court Judge Patrick J. King has ruled that the Department of Public Welfare's denial of relief benefits to the disabled is illegal.

He found it to be "inherently unfair, unjust, and inequitable."

Last October, when the general relief welfare program was scrapped and the new Emergency Aid to the Elderly, Disabled and Children (EDC) was created to take its place EDC eliminated several categories of recipients. Judge King has found that the program may have gone too far, eliminating needy people who could not meet criteria that the judge and advocates for disabled people described as obstacles deliberately raised so applicants would not qualify.

The 9000 are now eligible to reapply and should contact their local Welfare office for details, but as Judge King wrote, "The harm to these persons cannot be erased when the benefits are renewed after appeal and retroactively awarded. Medicine not taken, or shelter lost due to unpaid rent, cannot be replaced with retroactive payments."

What makes this tragedy of human pain and suffering such a travesty is that $25 million appropriated by the Legislature to assist some of the neediest of our citizens has gone unspent. The State had the money but refused to serve the people who needed it.

The best course for the administration now is to let Judge King's just ruling stand, and not attempt to appeal it. The shame is that our social safety net had to be mandated by the Court.

Sincerely,

Dr. Joseph Doolin

Dear Larz:

re: Homeowner nailed by builder of new deck, by Brad Parmenter

Where were the DeFilippo brothers when this article was being written? There are two sides to every story. Where is theirs? Your sources are biased, to say the least. Mrs. Cathy Tremonti had her case against them thrown out of court. We feel that the DeFilippo brothers should have been contacted before this article was run. We believe in freedom of speech and freedom of press, but we feel that this piece was unfair.

Meg Walsh and Linda Burton

Editor's reply: Yes, the story would have been better with their side. Parmenter attempted to call Paul DeFilippo, unsuccessfully. Nonetheless, we stand behind all factual matter in the story. They do not hold construction supervisors licenses, or even drivers licenses. This is a matter of record. As for the case being thrown out of court, that was for the threats. The matter of the construction was never in court. —lfn

The Tewksbury Garden Club effort to raise money to buy lights for the common was formally kicked off on Friday. ## Knights of Columbus attend state conference

Grand Knight Roland Desharnais of Fr. Coppens Council of Tewksbury together with Deputy Grand Knight Benedict Dobbin and District Deputy Marvin Peschel recently attended the Massachusetts Knights of Columbus Grand Knights and Officers two day conference at the Newton Marriott Hotel. Newly elected State Deputy Kenneth N. Ryan of Braintree presided over some 450 officers representing over 53,000 members. The conference was designed to instruct and familiarize the newly elected Grand Knights with the various programs and activities which the K of C will be sponsoring on a statewide level during the next fraternal year.

On the program as speakers were Program Director John Pierce of Braintree; Membership Director

Paul Beaton of Tewksbury; Membership Recruitment Chairman Anthony Manzelli of Southboro; Council Activities Director Richard Guerriero; Charity Drive Chairman Thomas Ledbetter of Roslindale; Community Director Robert Shone of East Boston; editor of "Knightline;" James Devine of South Hadley; Family Activities Director Lawrence Sheehan of Revere; Church Activities Director Joseph Craven of Dedham; Pro Life Chairman Atty. John Spillane of Worcester; Youth Activities Director Brendan Flynn of Readville; and Youth Free Throw Chairman Joseph Tomaski of Milford.

State Deputy Ryan announced that 15 councils will be celebrating their 100th birthday this year in Lawrence, Chicopee, Lynn, Lowell, Cambridge, Somerville, Salem, Woburn, South Boston, Natick, Milford, Marlboro, Taunton, Chelsea and East Boston. He concluded, "We have stood the test of time for 100 long years to our Church, our Country and our Communities. Today, you make history because this Grand Knights' Conference launches our Second Century of Service."

City trip for early November, my next article will have all the info. It will be posted on the bulletin board when completed, the end of August. Sorry about the lack of mirth and merriment, but this serious stuff, plus I am using my new word processor for the first time and the results are funny enough.

Happy birthday wishes to: Lorraine Muse, Mildred Hall, Regina Fedukowski, Barbara McWatt, Elwood Wilson, Mary Murphy, Arthur Romano, Rita Geddes, Bertha Saber and Frank Tynan.

Happy Anniversaries to: Barbara and Fred Baldwin, Caroline and Walter Gruca, Leon and Isabelle Bigold, Mary and Consolo Cabral, and Elsie and Frank Camacho.

Tewksbury golden age

by Ernie Lorenz
Concerning membership, on June 1, it should have been renewed. After three months, according to the bylaws you are delinquent or by September 30. The membership committee has worked very hard to correlate and process over 700 names; they are hoping the end is in sight. Please check your card, it should be blue, with the dates 1992-1993 on it. You may mail your old card along with $3.00 and a self addressed envelope to the center, or if you choose, drop by in person. Just call first 640-4480 to be sure someone is there to take care of you. There usually is.

The Paramount trip has two full coaches with lavatories, there is a waiting list posted on the GAC bulletin board. You may go without a cancellation but mode of transportation could be without a lavatory and more frequent stops might be necessary. All cancellations will be filled from the waiting list.

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

They're family. They're Wilmington House of Pizza! Arthur, Henry, and Lee Siannas work hard behind the counter to offer the best pizza in town with fast very friendly service.

In a town with as many restaurants serving pizza as Wilmington has, one would think that it would be hard to find one restaurant that is different, better than the rest. But there is one, and it has earned it's name: Wilmington House of Pizza. Not a franchise, they use their cooking skills and their own good taste to make the best pizza in Wilmington. Thirteen years of quality and quantity at a reasonable price. The Siannas family opened their business in 1979 and has been serving pizza, subs, grinders, spaghetti, lasagna and chicken since.

Adult evening courses at Shawsheen Tech

Ranging from word processing and home computers to nurse's aid and electrical apprenticeship courses, the Adult Education Program at Shawsheen Tech lists 34 courses this fall that enable adults to learn a vocation or explore an avocation.

Registration will take place in the school cafeteria from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14 to Thurs., Sept. 17. Evening school Director Ray Elden notes, however, that in district residents "have a time advantage, since we are sending the brochure home in the local advertiser newspaper on Sept. 1." Elden said his office will accept mail in registration beginning Sept. 4. "Since some classes are very popular, they could be filled by September 14, so early registration is recommended," he added. The office will be open from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, beginning Sept. 9 to answer questions about this year's program.

Classes begin the week of Sept. 28. Courses typically meet twice a week (Mon./Wed. or Tues./Thurs.) from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. for about 10 weeks for a total of 60 hours.

Shriner's Rodeo coming to Wilmington

If you were to compile a list of the ten most unlikely places to have a rodeo, Wilmington would probably be on it.

But for two weekends this fall, there will be cowboys in the coffee shops in and around Wilmington. They will be in town to take part in the rodeo at the Shriners Auditorium.

The Aleppo Temple of Shriners will host the Double R World Championship Rodeo at Shriners Auditorium on Sept. 25, 26 and 27, and Oct. 2, 3 and 4.

The rodeo is a major project for the Shriners, who truck in several tons of dirt into their building to provide a suitable surface for events such as calf roping, bronc riding and steer wrestling.

Eight performances will take place on two weekends, Fridays at 7:30, Saturdays at 1:30 and 7:30, and Sundays at 4 p.m.

Rodeo tickets are $9 for adults, $4.50 for children. For ticket information, call 657-4202.

Country and western bands will be playing in the round-up room at the Shriners on the nights of the rodeo. The first weekend, Michael J. Leary will perform. On the second weekend, it will be Yankee Jack and Marie. Admission to the country dance is included in the ticket price of the rodeo.

Book sale

The annual Book Sale of the Friends of the Chelmsford Public Library will take place Friday, September 18th through Sunday, September 20 on the grounds of the Chelmsford Public Library, 25 Boston Road (Route 4), Chelmsford Center.

The sale is the largest of its kind in New England with over 30,000 volumes of used books for sale. In addition to hard covers, there are extensive collections of paperbacks, magazines and LP records. The range of categories is large and includes the following headings: art, business, biography, children's books, cooking, gardening, humor, history, hobbies, literature, novels, medicine, mystery, parenting, religion, reference, and science fiction.

The Chelmsford Friends of the Library, which sponsors the sale, works throughout the year sorting and pricing books. Prices are very reasonable: five paperbacks for a dollar, and most hardcovers priced from 50 cents to $1.50. Money raised from the sale benefits library programs and services.

The sale is open to the public Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Book choice is on a first come, first served basis.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

REFRIGERATOR DEATH TRAP

QUESTION: Is it true that children have died of suffocation from playing in abandoned refrigerators? If so, how can this be prevented?

ANSWER: Yes, it is true and pathetic. An old, abandoned refrigerator could be a death trap for a child.

Many children have climbed into these tempting cubby holes and closed the door only to be pulled out dead from suffocation. A child can become unconscious in ten minutes and dead within 25 minutes.

If you have an unused refrigerator, turn it around so the door is against the wall. Padlock the door handles or remove the doors altogether. Why take such a risk?

CHILDREN CAN SUFFOCATE by climbing into abandoned refrigerators. Remove the doors.

Wilmington senior topics

Meals on wheels

Minuteman Home Care will be supplying "meals on wheels" until Sept. 8, when the local program resumes. They will be taken to the Center and delivered by meal drivers to shut-in seniors. We know that several seniors eating at the lunch site in the high school find it difficult to prepare a meal for themselves. During the shut-down of meals at the school, they may get a meal from Minuteman Home Care. Call the Center (657-7595) the day before or the Friday before for the week.

Hard to fill hours?

Now that the hectic days of summer are drawing to a close, we will be finding many hours of our days harder to fill. The Senior Citizen Center is where you can fill those hours simply by getting involved in any of our organized programs. There are many to choose from. I am sure one or more will be to your satisfaction. It may be an exercise class, dance class, or exercising on the machines in the exercise room, or a craft class, ceramic or shop class; to keep the mind alert, a whist or bingo game. They are all well attended and free to all seniors in Wilmington. All you have to do is go in and join the class. If not one of our programs seems to please you, don't become a tv addict during the day, drop by and have a cup of coffee and donut and enjoy a little socialization and conversation.

Balance billing

Many questions come to me on the meaning of balance billing. What is the Balance Billing Law? This is a law passed by the Mass. Legislature several years ago. What does it mean? It is a limit on how much a doctor can charge you for his/her services if you are covered by Medicare and a supplemental insurance. The law protects you by setting a limit on the fee the doctor charges you as a Medicare patient. That is, it is equal to the approved charge by Medicare. It is important that you understand also that the doctor has to agree to accept assignment or the approved amount. An example of the limit or approved amount by Medicare to a doctor who accepts assignment is:

The doctor may submit a bill for his services to Medicare for $150. Medicare approves $100. Medicare will pay your doctor $80.00 or 80 percent of the bill. Now you or your supplemental insurance will be responsible for the other 20 percent or $20. Now this is where the Ban on Balance Billing Law comes into effect. You do not have to pay the additional $50 above the $100.00. When you receive an explanation of Medicare payment in the mail make sure you check it. It will tell you whether your doctor has agreed to accept the Medicare amount. If he has not you will have to pay what he bills you. Routine office visits and any medical procedure not covered under Medicare will be your responsibility.

Congratulations are extended to Marilyn McCarthy, newly elected chairman of the Elder Commissioners and newly elected Vice Chairman Joseph Filipowicz.

Arrests

Tuesday afternoon Officer Joe Harris drove to East Cambridge District Court to attest Richard A. Patten Jr., 24, of Winthrop on the basis of a Wilmington warrant charging him with breaking and entry in the nighttime with intent to commit a felony and larceny. The charges, obtained by Insp. Mike Celata, stemmed from a break-in at Boomers Billiards in May, 1990. He was taken to Woburn District Court for arraignment.

Later on Tuesday, Officer David Axelrod arrested Douglas Wiggins 24, of Methuen on Lowell Street, near West Street. Wiggins was charged with possession of a class D controlled substance, believed to be marijuana. He was released on bail for his appearance in Woburn District Court.

At 3 a.m. Sunday, Officer David Sugrue arrested two men after he responded to a disturbance call at 321 Main Street. Perry Proctor, 25 of Newmarket, N.H. was charged with disorderly conduct, assault and battery on a police officer, and malicious damage to a police cruiser. Terrance Proctor, 23 of 15 Canal St., Wilmington was charged with disorderly conduct, and possession of a class D controlled substance, believed to be marijuana. Both men were admitted to bail for their appearance in Woburn Court Tuesday, Aug. 25. Officer Sugrue was assisted by Sgt. Gable and officers Richter and Hubby.

Officer Alan Reece arrested Deanna T. Young, 21, of Main Street, North Reading at 9:15 p.m. Sunday. Young was charged with operating under the influence and violation of the open container law. She was bailed for her appearance in Woburn District Court Monday.

Upon arraignment she was scheduled to have her license taken by the court for 90 days due to failing the breathalyzer test with a reading of .20.

At 5:30 p.m. Sunday Officer Reece arrested Linda Ann Last, 26, of Bancroft Street, Wakefield, charging her with operating after suspension of her drivers license and proving a false name to an officer. She was bailed for a Monday appearance at Woburn Court.

Vandalism

Monday night/Tuesday morning vandals struck several neighborhoods in succession. On Allen Park Drive and Plymouth Avenue someone attempted to flatten tires. On Lawrence Street at least eight mailboxes were damaged and shrubs were uprooted.

Police are looking for information from neighbors. The first incident is believed to have occurred on Birchwood Avenue around 11 p.m. when tires were slashed; the damage appears to have moved to Lawrence Street, then to Allen Park and Plymouth Avenue. Several youths were seen on Adams Street at 4:30 in the morning, but fled before police arrived.

Wind sprints
in Tewksbury

These young Tewksbury Youth Football candidates get set to do some wind sprints during Monday night's heated practice at Livingston Street. The players are surviving the heat in preparation for the upcoming season.

Wilmington cheerleaders beat the heat

Wilmington's Pop Warner cheerleaders are put through their paces early in Tuesday night's practice at the Glen Road School. Practices for both cheerleaders and players will continue throughout the week.

In Wilmington

Pop Warner numbers are up

This year the registration numbers have increased for both football and cheerleading which shows a greater interest in the Wilmington Pop Warner program.

Bob Gillis, Athletic Director for the boys, reports he will be suiting up five full squads at A,B,C,D and E levels. Bob reports that if anyone is still interested in joining the football team it's not too late, as practices are just starting.

Debbie Smith, Athletic Director for the cheerleaders, is anticipating a busy season for the girls, as four squads will be traveling to a competition this year. The competition is scheduled for October 13 at Woburn High School.

The cheerleading program is popular this year, (thanks to the efforts of Debbie and Assistant Athletic Director Karen Trevisone), unfortunately registration for the girls had to be closed.

President Dom Ritucci reports that this has been one of the busiest off seasons for WPW with the purchase of new uniforms for both football players and cheerleaders.

As of right now, Dom is very pleased with the number of boys and girls registered in the program with over 220 youngsters registered. The figures break down to 135 boys and 87 girls. Dom would like to add that it is not too late for football players to register by contacting either Bob Gillis at 657-5913 or Ken Redmond at 988-0864.

WPW is always in need of volunteers. Judging by the numbers above, this season the program will need more volunteers than ever.

You can help out the Board of Directors who run this program by either joining the board or volunteering in any way possible. The Board of Directors meets the second and fourth Monday of the month at the K of C Hall, School Street at 7:30 p.m. and meetings are open to the public.

Youngsters enjoyed a great summer

The playgrounders enjoyed a great summer at the Wilmington Recreation Playground. Last Monday we attended a field day at Livingston Park in Tewksbury. Although it was a little rainy, the Wilmington playgrounders took home countless ribbons.

On Tuesday, we held our first water day. We held water balloon relays and super soaker fights. Later on in the day we held our annual talent show. The prize for best choreography went to Tara Binkowski, Lauren Cushing, Kelly Cavanaugh and Colleen Campbell.

The cutest dance was a jump performed by Valerie Coutu, Aimee Coutu, Lynn Hurley and Lisa Hurley.

Our master impressionist, Patrick Cushing gave us his version of some in living color characters. The best spirit award went to Jessica Jackson, Nicole Zarella, Katie Jackson and Valerie Zarella for their wonderful cheering. Sean Layton gave us the best animal impersonation of Donald Duck.

On our last day, we held a cookout and passed out awards. Noisiest playgrounders award went to Lindsay Bruno, Colleen Campbell and Kenny Ward; noisiest volunteer, Paul Bruno; most helpful, Meghan Sullivan and Wes Dunham; funniest laugh, Jennifer Webber; most likely to get injured, Justin Brady; most like Arnold, Andy Campbell, Pat Cushing, Paul Bruno; future recreation directors, Meghan Sullivan and Billy Lemos, best voice, Joe Delaney; best disappearing act, Kerri Casella and Matt Calandrello; earliest, Chris Censullo; fastest talker, Mary Lord; most persistent, Adam Clancy and Meredith Cipriani; best name, Chuck Brandon and Derek Courtois; most likely to replace Ellen, Colleen Campbell; most likely to replace Dorothy, Heather Poloian; most likely to replace Matt, Brendon Mallon, most likely to replace Tom, Joe Donovan.

Next we would like to recognize Meredith Cipriani and Chris Censullo, our Playgrounders of the Week. Our Volunteers of the Week, Dave DeSantis and Matt Calandrello, were also extremely helpful.

The playground staff would like to thank the children for being so cooperative over the summer. Have fun, stay safe, and enjoy the rest of your vacation. Hope to see you next year.

Small cheers

Golf tourney set for Sept. 14

Monday, September 14, the Monsignor John J. Linnehan Golf/Tennis Tournament will be held at the Charles River Country Club. Round-robin tennis and shotgun golf will commence at 1 p.m.

The $90 entry fee for tennis includes court fees, tournament prizes, refreshments and a barbecue.

The $150 golf package includes greens fees, golf cart, tee prizes, hole in one contest, refreshments and barbecue.

Proceeds of the event will benefit Arlington Catholic High School's building campaign - 'Building its Future.' Sponsorship and super sponsorships are available.

Arlington Catholic's alumni are hosting this tournament as part of its capital campaign to build a much needed addition to their school.

The addition will include the Monsignor John J. Linnehan Library, named to honor a man who has given so much to so many during his almost 50 years of priesthood.

The library will be handicapped accessible and open to senior citizens. The addition will also include new office space, three classrooms, a music and art room, enabling the school to expand its fine arts program.

Anyone interested in participating in or sponsoring the golf/tennis tournament should call 646-5101 or 876-1885.

Chamber of Commerce has three health plans

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has announced that it now has three group health insurance plan options available to its members: Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Harvard Community Health Plan, and United Chambers insured plans. Each plan is designed to meet the individual and family needs of all chamber member firms.

The programs offered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield will include both traditional indemnity plans and HMO Blue, which will be available to businesses of one to five employees. Rates for these programs are based on an age and zip code factor for each group. The Harvard Community Health Plan, administered by IBS Business Services, Inc., will offer chamber members and their employees a present individual or family monthly group rate with a co-payment schedule. Members can choose from one of 39 locations in Massachusetts for service, and the primary care doctor they designate can refer them to one of the top specialists associated with HCHP.

United Chambers Insured plans will be available to member firms at any time during the year and gives complete flexibility with freedom of choice of your own doctor or hospital. The rates are based on age, and members can choose from six deductible amounts and co-insurance options thereby designing a plan to meet their individual budget and insurance needs.

If you are interested in receiving more information on the above health benefits and how you can become an eligible Chamber member, contact the Chamber office at 508-657-7211.

Advice, programs for Shawsheen Tech freshmen

Area students return to school in a couple of weeks; for some of them, the experience includes an unfamiliar building, a schedule unlike any they've had before, and a decision to pursue something different from their friends. For the incoming ninth graders at Shawsheen Tech, confronting these changes can be awesome. Recognizing this, a group of students who just completed their first year gathered to offer their observations on being a freshman at Shawsheen Tech.

Carolyn Campbell, Rod Forsythe, Jill Branley, Mike Bigley, and Tom Balkan looked back over a year that went from initial confusion on the first days of high school, to mixed feelings about beginning their career concentration. At Shawsheen, students alternate weeks of academic studies with weeks of vocational technical training, or "shop," throughout their four years. As ninth graders, they spend their shop weeks exploring career paths with hands on experience, then in the last quarter, choose an area of concentration for the remaining years.

"Keep an open mind," was their collective advice to younger students. "Stay open minded about everything as you go through the 14 shops you'll explore," said Rod Forsythe of Bedford, who came to Shawsheen to study metal fabrication, but found air conditioning and refrigeration (ACR) more to his liking. "Participate in each one and absorb something."

Carolyn Campbell of Billerica urged students to strive to do their best in each area, since teachers give a grade for each exploratory as well as an effort mark. "If you do well in all of them, then you will have the best chance of getting into the program you want."

For Jill Branley of Wilmington, who resisted peer pressure and chose to attend the Tech without a group of friends, exploratory was "where you meet people." Jill also jumped into after school activities, including softball and swimming.

"Next year, I'll play volleyball, too," she said.

Both Campbell and Branley said they are "a little sorry" that exploratory is over. "I enjoyed learning about different things," said Campbell.

Exploratory for Everyone
Shawsheen Tech Guidance Counselor Mark Small believes the career exploratory program, which gives students hands on experience in 14 vocational technical areas, and information about hundreds of jobs, should be a requirement for all students.

"It is an educational sin that only some ninth graders in this district go through the career exploratory program. Everyone should do this," Small, who counsels ninth graders says about 60 percent of them change their mind about their first choice career path, once they have had the opportunity to try it out. "Career Exploratory is a one-shot opportunity," he said. "No matter what profession you end with, you will work with people in some of these occupations. There is nothing better than this exploratory to give a candid view and hands on opportunity to gain some understanding of what these jobs are like."

Students agreed that exploratory opened their eyes to occupations other than the one they thought they wanted. "We didn't know anything about most of the programs," said Mike Bigley of Tewksbury, now an electronics student who once thought he wanted a career in technical illustration/commercial art. "I came because I liked the school," he said. "My first choice was Tech III, but I did better in electronics and really liked it." Mike said he still enjoys drawing as a hobby. He also gained from an exploratory experience he didn't choose - carpentry. "I've been helping my father put an addition on the house this summer," he said.

Carolyn Campbell came to Shawsheen with three career interests - cosmetology, automotive and diesel. As diverse as they are, they still appeal to this Billerica resident. "I am in cosmetology, but I would have taken one of the others if I hadn't gotten in," she said. Carolyn used her new skills this year to replace the brake pads in the family car.

Jill Branley said she "really didn't know what the shops were about," and thought health would be her choice. "Then I got into business tech." Now she enjoys math and accounting, and hopes to go on to college to become a CPA.

Tom Balkan of Billerica enjoyed metal fabrication and thought he would choose that, until he tried plumbing. Now Tom has a goal of becoming a master plumber after graduation.

Academics important

The one year veterans urge fellow students to pay attention to their academics for success in their chosen field. "I talked to some people who didn't even think vocational schools had academics," said Rod Forsythe. During academic weeks, students meet all academic requirements for high school graduation or college admission; the schedule includes double periods of English and no study halls.

"Freshmen need to remember that academics and shop are related," Forsythe said. Students noted the importance of math, for example, in all fields, from ACR to electronics, to cosmetology, to plumbing to business tech, and scientific knowledge needed to understand principles in such fields as ACR, electronics and cosmetology.

Students need to remember to schedule homework properly, said the group, all honor roll students. "It's easy to lose track of time during shop week," said Forsythe, who suddenly remembered a report he needed the day before it was due. "Do your homework right away," said Branley. Some said since homework is much lighter during shop week, some longer projects can be saved for that time; for others, the schedule depended upon the weather - "I'll do the homework first if it's raining," said Bigley - or on scheduled work hours - Campbell works at a horse farm on an irregular schedule; three of the others have part time jobs as well.

Tewksbury senior topics

by Linda Ricardo-Brabant
Along with the sunny and warm weather of this past weekend came another successful fund-raising event for our senior citizens as they held their first car wash at the Knights of Columbus. The seniors are to be commended on their work and they did work!

We would like to express our thanks to: Selectmen Pete Hanson and Tom Colon who worked with us for most of the day; the Knights of Columbus for their generosity in letting us use their facility for the car wash; all those people who brought their cars down to be washed (yes, even those of you who had those vans and trucks!); all those who knew we were getting tired and got out to help us wash their own car; Tewksbury Hardware for their help in ordering all our supplies; and, last but far from least, Mr. Bernie Shea who came up with the idea of the car wash and was in charge of the day's events. Yes, Bernie, your idea was a great one which will be long remembered as we tend our blisters, rest our weary bodies and dry out clothes and shoes. All in all it was a lot of work, but a lot of fun...and we got to meet some great new people!

Between the seniors' yard and bake sale and their car wash, the seniors and their supporters raised enough money to donate $1000 to the Common Light Project; and partially fund a visitation day at the Senior Center for those of our elderly who are in nursing homes or are homebound.

Besides hosting a visitation day in September, the Tewksbury senior citizens are now preparing for Homecoming Weekend which will be held October 2-4. Our senior citizens will hold a spaghetti supper October 2 at Livingston Field featuring entertainment by Sounds Unlimited and the ever popular Karaoke.

Our crafts people also have plans underway for their annual crafts fair which will be held at the Senior Center Saturday, November 7. Anyone interested in reserving table space may contact Dorothy DeMarais, Phyllis Gibson or the coordinator.

Those who have obtained tickets for the lobster bake of Fri, Aug. 28, should take note of the following: (1) this will be an open seating event; tables will not be assigned or reserved; (2) take along those special tools for eating lobster; and (3) bus pickup will begin at 4:30 p.m.

At the COA meeting of last week, Council member Frank Criscitello noted that the issue of the "notch years" babies is before the House and Senate. Those senior citizens born between 1917 and 1923, who experience a reduction in their Social Security checks should call the toll free number 1-800-775-4545 and urge their legislators to take the following bills out of committee and put them to a favorable vote: House HR 917 and Senate 567. Why not take a few minutes of your time and let your voice count? If you do it right now...you won't forget!

Our VNA nurse, Charlene, will be conducting blood sugar tests for our known diabetics Wednesday, Sept. 2. On the last Wednesday of the month, Sept. 30, Charlene will conduct another sugar testing clinic. This clinic is to be held for non diabetics who would like to have their sugar tested; and, will be limited to the first 25 people who sign up at the Senior Center.

Our line dancers are reminded that instructed line dance classes by Kay Marsdon will resume on Thursday, September 3 at 9:30 a.m.

Smile-a-mile jacket orders are expected to be in next week. You will want to check with Maxine Drew weekday mornings about your's.

Served on USS Terror

Donald G. Hicks, Sr. of 541 Trull Road, Tewksbury served three years in World War II on the USS Terror, mine layer, and was wounded in a kamikaze attack May 1, 1945 at Okinawa.

In September, he will be attending the 12th reunion of the crew of the USS Terror at the Ramada Inn in Woburn. About 100 persons are expected to be present.

Before Hicks was on the Terror he served on the Battleship USS Arkansas for several years and made two voyages to Newfoundland, carrying the U.S. Secretary of State to the meetings of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Later the Arkansas served as convoy protection, in the Iceland area, one of the reasons being the presence of the German battleship Bismark.

Those traveling to Lantana's to see the performance of Charlie Prose Friday, Sept. 4 are reminded that bus departure from the Senior Center is scheduled for 10 a.m. Lillian Ferraioli will be in charge of this trip.

The following day trips are scheduled for September and are starting to fill up: the Big E (Springfield Fair) Friday, Sept. 18 at $20 for motorcoach transportation and fair admission with payments now due; Rockingham Park on Monday, Sept. 21 at $18 including a buffet lunch and school bus transportation; and, the performance of Razzle Dazzle Burlesque at the Playhouse in Amesbury on Tuesday, Sept. 29, including lunch and school bus transportation.

The regular schedule will be adhered to this week.

Jana Carol Goff weds David Drew

Jana Carol Goff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Goff of Corpus Christi, Texas, exchanged wedding vows with David L. Drew, son of Maxine Drew of Tewksbury and the late Richard H. Drew, on June 13 at the Wesley United Methodist Church, Corpus Christi, Texas. The Rev. Lacey officiated at the evening service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in a gown of white summer satin, with a bodice of lace, trimmed with pearls, featuring a scalloped neckline and short sleeves. The cathedral train edged in lace was adorned with pearls and bows. She carried a cascade of calla lilies, ribbons and pearls. Her headpiece of satin and pearls, that caught her bridal veil, was designed and made by her mother.

The matron of honor was a special childhood friend, Melissa Lawrence Salazar of Corpus Christi. The bride's sister Jeanie McCaughan and a long time classmate, Lois Deater were her attendants. Their gowns were mid-length taffeta in shades of blue. They carried an unusual spray of white roses, stephanotis, pampas grass, and hanging chlorophyllum comosum vittatum.

Autumn Salazar carried out the duties of flower girl, wearing a full length white dress and carrying a basket of flowers. Justin McCaughan, nephew of the bride along with niece Summer Goff, took part in the service while Janet McCaughan and Hailey Goff were in charge of the guest book.

Warren Drew, of Tewksbury was his brother's best man while ushering duties were in charge of Don Coleman and Brian Burke, friends of the groom from Texas.

Ashley Drew attended in full length blue taffeta gown and carried a nosegay of white roses and ribbons. Her brother Eric was attired in a tuxedo.

The bride's mother wore a pink street length dress with a corsage of white roses. While the groom's mother chose a street length dress of light blue, with a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom greeted their guests at a reception held at the Art Museum of South Texas, Corpus Christi. Guests were treated to a delightful buffet, while they enjoyed the latest art displays of the museum. A four piece orchestra played for dancing.

The bride is a graduate of Carroll High School and Texas A&M University at College Station. She is employed at Cae-Link, Link Flight Simulation, Houston, Texas.

Her husband is a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School, Middlesex Community College, Bedford and University of Mass. at Lowell. He is employed at Amerada Hess Corporation, Houston, Texas. They will live in Pearlton, Texas.

ANTHONY MANCONI

The first car my father owned was a 1925 Buick. He had read the slogan, "When Better Cars are Built, Buick will Build Them." So, he bought a seven passenger Buick. Almost every Sunday afternoon in the summer the family (six kids and my parents) would squeeze into the car along with two picnic coolers and we'd head for Hampton Beach. Since 1925, there have been several Buicks in my immediate family.

My neighbor recently purchased a new Buick from Crest Buick Woburn. She would qualify as a test driver on the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, testing tanks for the US Army. Her driving record notwithstanding, she had clocked over 100,000 miles on the Buick she traded in for a new one. It proved two things: When cars are built, Buick really builds them; and she has the good sense (and that's rare) to bring her car to "Crest" for the prescribed services.

Years ago I found out that buying a cheap suit wasn't cheap at all because being caught in the rain would shrink it two sizes so I had to buy another one. I remember telling a salesman I would like to buy a blue suit. He shouted, "Hey, Harry, put on the blue light. This man wants a blue suit." I walked out and went across the street and said, "I would like to see something 'cheap' in a blue suit." "Certainly," he said, "try this one on and then look in the mirror." Now I buy the very best and that's at Ostuni's in Burlington where Gaspar, Tom Burke and Mario Mancini treat everybody royally.

I said to Tom Burke, "Your sign in the window says, 'Tom Burke, CPA'. That means Certified Public Accountant to me, Tom." He smiled and said, "To me it means Cleaning, Pressing and Alterations." ...I read about a cannibal wedding and at the reception the bride and groom were "toast-ed."

Officer Kevin Fisher went to a woman's home. She wouldn't answer the doorbell so he shouted through the mail slot, "Your husband has been run over by a steamroller!" The woman said, "O.K, slip him under the door will you please. I'm in the bath." ...Mario DiMino of Stoneham told a beautiful blonde bombshell, "I'd go to the end of the world for you." "Yes," she said, "but will you stay there?" Mario is a born loser. He asked his lady friend, "Your place or

Helping in their small, big way

By JAMES B. GOLDSMITH

The recent summit in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil brought together leaders from throughout the world in an attempt to save our natural resources including air, soil, water and forests.

While birds and their importance in a healthy environment probably weren't discussed at the conference they nevertheless are important barometers of our environmental health. Unless we conserve forests and wetlands for our fine feathered friends, both birds and man will be endangered species.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger MacDonald of 850 Main Street, Lynnfield, have expanded a lifetime interest in natural history into a project that in a small but important way helps scientists and ornithologists study and protect birds.

Marion MacDonald, an energetic lady with deep set dark brown eyes, had been banding birds for years under a license granted by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service. One day she mentioned to Roger that it would be great to have a tool that would let her band and release the birds quickly.

Roger MacDonald, a trim, soft spoken man, loves to solve mechanical problems. He went to work in his cellar machinist's shop where he designed and remade a standard channel lock, needle nose pliers. Marion says, "To date approximately 10,000 pliers have been sent to banders around the world." Roger, a modest man, says, "For years we supplied pliers to the American Museum of Natural History (New York City)." The Canadian government ordered 80 pair of Roger's pliers about the importance of saving birds. The talented machinist says, "It made me feel good to be part of an educational program."

The MacDonalds' special project also has had a good effect on their marriage. Marion says, "We certainly know that one couldn't do it without the other - he couldn't do it without me and that's very important in a marriage."

While the MacDonalds get many telephone calls and letters requesting their pliers, one stands out in Marion's mind. Her brown eyes dance at the memory. She says, "We got a frantic call once from a Pennsylvania woman who said her bluebirds were ready to leave their nests. She had bluebird boxes stacked to the ceiling and five baby raccoons in the house." To complicate matters she had taken in a sick little bluebird which she decided needed mothering. What's a compassionate,

Karate academy plans for fostering Olympic spirit

Although karate has not yet been adopted as an official Olympic sport, there are many parallels between karate students and Olympic athletes. Olympic athletes have to train for many years to qualify for a chance at the Olympics. Similarly, karate students train for many years and some continue to train a lifetime to perfect their art.

The true spirit of the Olympics is not in just winning, but in the joy of competing. Although some karate students compete in karate tournaments, karate students mainly compete with themselves. This is also true of many Olympians, many of whom are more concerned with beating their own personal best times than even winning a medal.

One local karate school that fosters this Olympic spirit is the Academy of Traditional Karate of 155 West St., Wilmington. Students are taught the value of commitment and determination. Adults, as well as children as young as age 5, learn that consistently working hard to achieve their goal of becoming a black-belt is an exciting and fun endeavor.

This Olympic and karate spirit flies in the face of current trends, namely, a fast-paced, got-to-have-it-yesterday, three-second attention span mentality. When is the last time you cooked a meal in an oven rather than a microwave or actually watched an entire TV show without using the clicker?

Some people would say, given our hectic lifestyles that activities, such as karate, would not be popular. Apparently not, given the success of the Academy of caring bird bander to do? Our Pennsylvania friend quickly tucked the tiny bluebird into her bra. This made the 'new mother' feel like she had saved a precious bit of life as she excitedly shared the memory with Marion MacDonald. She said, "Boy, when that bird warmed up was it ever hungry." Marion smiles at the distant thought and tells us, "Anyone who would warm up a little bird in her bra deserves prompt service." We trust the pliers arrived in time and bluebird and 'mother' are doing well.

Helping

Meanwhile, a biologist who has met Roger MacDonald and is familiar with the pliers he remakes has some interesting stories to tell about our fine feathered friends. Trevor Lloyd Evans, senior biologist at the Manomet Bird Observatory, Manomet, MA says there are many amusing and interesting bird anecdotes but one soars to the tree top of this very British biologist's memory.

One early spring day 10 years ago the Manomet Bird Observatory got a call from the Plymouth police. It seems a lady and her children who lived near White Horse Beach were being held "hostage." The bold, agitated intruder wasn't about to let anyone enter or leave the house and the poor lady fussed, fretted, and wondered if this bird would ever butt out and let domestic tranquility return to their home by a picturesque pond.

Soon Evans, with a knack for solving "abductions," and several students were dispatched to the scene. Lo and behold, they found a large, agitated and frustrated male swan (cob). This character wasn't about to be sent on his way. He wanted to sing a love song to his new mate and fly away to live happily ever after. Evans says, "In the spring (male) swans get very territorial. This one 'saw' another swan in the cellar door window -- actually his own reflection." Evans solved the case without Scotland Yard's help. The senior biologist advised the much relieved homeowner to tape a piece of cardboard to the window. Jolly well should do the trick, right? Evans and his students went back to work and forgot about the incident until later that day. Guess who called the Manomet Bird Observatory again? The lady was getting as agitated and frustrated as the swan whose neck feathers were ruffled as it flapped its wings and hissed at anyone who came into the backyard.

The remedy? The panicky homeowner was advised to tape the cardboard to the outside of the window. When she taped it on the inside of the glass it made a great mirror for our romantic friend.

Hopefully our romantic swan sang his song to a beautiful princess across the pond while the lady of the house and her children lived happily ever after.

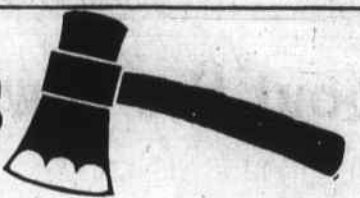

How important are birds in our life? They bring beauty, joy, peace and a song into our lives and ask for little in return. Evans agrees wholeheartedly and adds, "Birds move if things go bad with their habitat." There is a lesson -- we must leave enough forest, wetlands and cover for our fine feathered friends. The alternative is unthinkable and unacceptable.

The only woman to receive the Medal of Honor, the highest military award given by the United States government was Mary Edwards Walker, a Union Army surgeon during the Civil War.

Officer Gately arrested a young boy for shooting out a couple of panes of glass with a BB gun. The case was referred to the "Juvenile Appellate Court." ...Kathy went into a hardware store and told the clerk, "Give me a mouse trap quick. I have to catch a bus." The clerk smiled and said, "Ma'am, we don't have mouse traps that size."

A waiter was bringing George Gould's fish dinner order when George exclaimed, "Why the heck do you have your thumb on the fish?" The waiter replied meekly, "I'm sorry sir but I didn't want the fish to slide off the tray and fall on the floor again." ...Folks, it's true, of all of God's gifts, "laughter" is ONE of the most precious.

My old maid cousin, Noreen, told me that she just had a burglar alarm installed by North Shore Security. "Gee," I told her, "after all these years I hope you 'catch' one." ...I remember when I'd call Pinewood Garden and a woman named Sandy would answer with a "smiling voice." I was told by Walter Arsenault that she retired a few years ago. Sandy, I know you still read Woodchips and I want you to know that I'll never forget your sweet personality.

When I first went ballroom dancing, I stepped on my partner's toes. She shouted, "For crying out loud! Where the heck did you learn to dance?" "I learned by myself because dancing is in my blood." "Well," she snapped, "you must have poor circulation because it hasn't reached your feet yet!" "Oh, let's be friends," I said, "What must I give you for a little kiss?" Her one word reply was a resounding "CHLOROFORM!"

Dan MacMaster asked a man on a bus, "Pardon me sir, are you reading that newspaper you're sitting on?" ...Robert and Neil are sons of Robert and his lovely wife Phyllis Farren of Saugus. When Neil took the larger of the two pieces of apple pie, his brother Robert exclaimed, "You are no gentleman! I would have taken the smaller piece." Neil shouted, "Then what the heck are you complaining about. I left the smaller piece for you!" ...Paul Simon asked me if either of my parents was a weightlifter. "Why do you ask me that, Paul?" I replied. Paul smiled and said, "One of them sure raised a dumbbell!"

I asked Charlie Collings at Village Carpet for a job as a salesman. I was told, "Chips, you look colorful and durable but not 'rugged' enough." ...Youths who leave home to set the world on fire usually come back home for more "matches." ...You are late again, what's your excuse this time?" Brian McCarthy of Kelly's on the Beach exclaimed, "I fell down a whole flight of steps coming to work this morning." Dennis Tully explained, "Well!" Brian shouted, "and that took you a half an hour?"

My Uncle Danny retired independently wealthy after 25 years of "Going out of Business Sales." ... "We are all 'Seafaring' men and women on this ship called earth," Walter Cronkite... My cousin Mike gave up drinking for his "wife and kidneys." ... Songs I love to hear, "How are things in Gloccamorra," "Galway Bay," and, for a change of pace, "Who put the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder?"

Dreamboat is Gail Costello of Stoneham.

Super Star is Jane Briggs of Reading.

DRAFT HORSE SHOW AT THE BIG E

The impressive stature and bearing of draft horses will regale fairgoers during The Big E's third annual Draft Horse Show in the Springfield Coliseum, September 24-27. The Draft Horse Show, featuring a cavalcade of horses in dress harness, will be presented as part of the prestigious Eastern States Exposition Horse Show.

According to Lee Salonen, vice president for Agriculture and Education, this year's 4-day Draft Horse Show, in addition to featuring single ladies and men's cart classes with two, three, four and six horse hitches, will include two new classes; a tandem class and a junior cart class for youth.

"Adding classes is a reflection of the enthusiasm that has been shown by Draft Horse Show exhibitors," said Salonen.

Draft horse breeds will be shown in harness and compete as follows: Clydesdales and Shires will show together September 24-25; Belgians and Percherons will show separately Sept. 25-27. Judging of the draft horses will be based on both appearance and performance and cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded.

Continuous horse and livestock shows, a premier entertainment lineup, enticing and educational exhibits, and fabulous fare are the ingredients that make The Big E, "New England's Great State Fair." The Big E will be held Sept. 16-27 on the grounds of Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield.

In Woburn Evening school tuition reduced

Most prices seem to go up each year, but here's a newsworthy exception - the Woburn Adult Evening School is reducing the cost of most of its courses this fall!

The School operates on a break-even basis according to School Committee policy. Successful operations and high registrations in recent terms have made this decrease possible. The nearly ten percent reduction is expected to broaden the appeal of the program.

Fifty courses will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting late in September in the categories of arts and crafts, dancing and exercise, business and employment skills, learning and communications, you and your hobbies and your home and your family.

New courses include Scherenschutte: The Art of Scissor Cutting; The Lampshade Workshop; Intermediate Floral Design; You've Got the Job - When Can You Start (a job search course); Advance Line Dancing; Step Aerobics; Women - Take Charge of Your Money and Your Life; Model Railroad; Spring-Flowering Bulbs; and Creating Your Own Window Valances.

Registration by mail starts as soon as brochures are available in early September and the school encourages early registration because many courses are "sold out" before the in-person registration nights in late September.

Persons may obtain the brochure at public libraries in Burlington, Stoneham, Winchester, Wakefield, Reading and Wilmington as well as the Woburn Public Library and the Woburn High School main office. Call (617) 938-9491 for further information.

Irish American Road Race Labor Day in Malden

The Annual Irish American Road Race, hosted by the Malden Irish American Club, will feature both a 10K and 5K course. "Many recreational runners are more comfortable with a 5K course," said Race official John Rivers, "this year we'll be offering them a choice. There is also a wheelchair division and five age categories. Race entries are up 30% because of the 5K course and a field of over 600 runners is expected.

This traditional Labor Day of Irish Music, beer, raffles and food is sponsored by Bud Light, Converse Inc., Davidson Chevrolet, Kayem Foods, Inc., 10K Thirst Quencher and Poland Spring, with all proceeds directly benefitting the American Lung Association.

Raffle items will include Bruins and Red Sox tickets, an autographed Bruins jersey and stick, autographed Patriot footballs, a Parker Brothers Game Package, Cabbage Patch Dolls, a Coca-Cola bicycle, Kevin McHale's shoes, and a special weekend night package at Guest Quarters Suite in Waltham. "It's a great day of fun for a good cause," added Rivers.

For race registration information, contact the Irish American Club at (617) 321-7720 or the American Lung Association at (617) 272-2866.

THEATER REVIEW

'The Drunkard ... or The Fallen Saved'

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

"The Drunkard or the Fallen Saved"

By William H. Smith
Directed by Juliet Cunningham

Musical Direction by Richard DeMone

At the Kendall Cafe, 233 Cardinal Medeiros Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts (617) 661-0993

There are very few people who understand the subtle nuances that make-up a melo-drama, however, the cast and directors of William H. Smith's "The Drunkard or the Fallen Saved" can be added to the list of people who do understand those fine points.

As presented at the Kendall Cafe, The Drunkard is a night of fun entertainment that lures even the coolest audience member to clap hands, boo the villain and cheer the heroes.

The show is a light easy night of entertainment in the boy meets girl, boy loses girl, girl saves boy and both live happily ever after mode."

In the program biographies, Reading resident Bernice Doherty

(Agnes, a bar girl and Julia) states that the most fun she has ever had "is with the group of actors now performing the Drunkard."

The fun between the actors is evident on the stage but is carried out with the discipline needed to allow the audience to enjoy the performance.

The fun that includes the audience starts with the sing-along at the start of Act I. The words to such classics as "Bye, Bye Blackbird," "Red, Red Robin" and other classics come up on the in-house video screens, to make it easy for the whole audience to enjoy the show.

Another factor to the enjoyment is the house itself. Kendall Cafe is a small establishment and, although some of the seats have obstructed views, the showroom is designed to keep everything intimate. You almost have to become part of the show.

The whole cast plays to this intimacy.

The problem with melo-dramas is that most casts fall to the temptation to over-act on their roles.

It takes a strong hand by a director to overcome this temptation, especially when it seems that the script was written by someone trying to emulate Shakespeare.

Juliet Cunningham must be given credit for her direction. The cast plays the script enough to bring out the sarcasm but does not go over the line where everything becomes syrupy sweet.

Butch Dean (Lawyer Cribbs) has enough control to make his evil part snide and unlovable but believable.

Regina Lucas (Mrs. Wilson and Carrie Nation) makes very good use of her native West Virginia accent to play the beleaguered mother of the young maiden in distress. She also brings the same Julliard, New England Conservatory and Longy School musical training she uses as a soloist in Melrose's First United Methodist Church Choir to bear in her singing parts on stage.

The show stealer is Doherty. She is a woman of a thousand faces and uses them very well as the added sister of the hero, as the hero and heroine's baby and as a bar girl.

Karl Hanuska (Edward Middleton) has the part of the upright young man about to go bad and then recover down pat.

He never makes the audience hate him and always leaves room to be saved.

Aurora Vanderbosch (Mary) has the herculean job of playing the sugar sweet heroine and yet making the audience believe that she really has the strength to fend off the larger than life troubles coming her way.

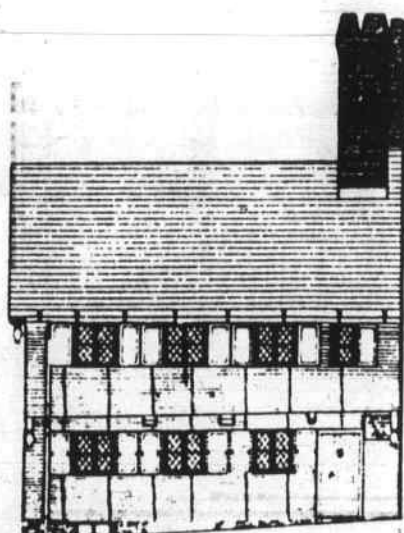

Great supporting parts are played by Harris Yoffa and Ted Powers.

The musical direction comes under the able hands of Richard DeMone. The Harvard graduate, cafe owner, lounge piano player (with Patti O'Keefe, who appears briefly in the show and entertains with a fine musical style afterward) also serves as the organist at Melrose's First United Methodist Church. It is his musical styling that makes you want to sing-along and brings out the musical best in the casts singing renditions.

If you like melodrama style and are looking to see it well done, then The Drunkard is the show to see.

Boston's favorite patriot once lived. Programs run from 1 to 4 p.m. (unless otherwise noted) and are free with museum admission: adults $2, seniors and college students $1.50, children ages 5 to 17 75¢. For further information, please contact Gretchen Adams, Paul Revere House, 19 North Square, Boston, MA 02113, (617) 523-2338.

September 5 - The Tailor's Craft - Except for military uniforms and rough work clothing worn by sailors and fishermen, ready-made garments as we know them today were generally not available in Revere's era. Tailors produced clothing to fit the measurements of specific customers. Find out what everyday life was like for one of these accomplished artisans as Henry Cooke, dressed in period costume, demonstrates colonial sewing techniques using "shapes," coded parchment tape and other tools of the period.

September 12 - Wood Graining and Marbling Demonstration - marbled wall panels and doors grained to imitate mahogany were considered fashionable in the 1700s. How did artisans produce these remarkable effects? See for yourself as Jane Viator applies paints and varnishes with feathers, combs and brushes.

September 19 - Gilding Demonstration - Colonial Americans loved to purchase picture frames and architectural ornaments covered with gold leaf which reflected available light and brightened up their homes. Professional gilder Nancy Dick-Atkinson shows how artisans applied the thin sheets of gold using rabbit skin glue.

October 10 - 74th (Highland) Regiment of Foot Revolutionary War Reenactment - This reenactment group provides an unusual perspective on the Revolutionary War -- that of a Scottish light infantry unit which fought on the side of the British. Dressed in period costume, members portray both soldiers and female camp followers.

October 17 - Spinning Demonstration - Watch Revere House curator, Edith Steblecki, card wool and spin it into thread. Find out why spinning was considered a patriotic activity in the Revolutionary era.

October 24 - Petticoat Patriot (presentations at 1, 1:45 and 2:30 p.m.) - Massachusetts-born Deborah Sampson, the only female soldier to serve in the American Revolution, tells about her extraordinary adventure. Deborah comes to life during an interactive program presented in 18th century costume by storyteller Joan Gattorna. Two lucky children from the audience will help Deborah show the secrets of a disguise that allowed her to serve in the Continental Army undetected as a woman for nearly two years.

October 31 - William Prescott's Battalion - Revolutionary War Reenactment - Talk with members of this infantry regiment who participated in the siege of Boston and the Battle of Bunker Hill.

USS CONSTITUTION U.S. Navy

Constitution presents interesting new exhibits

The USS Constitution Museum features artifacts and interactive exhibits that bring to life the Federal Period of the United States, during which USS Constitution enjoyed her great victories.

Exhibits are: "A Century of Service" which details Constitution's victories in the Barbary Wars and the War of 1812, and her evolution into a national symbol. "A Look Below the Waterline: Preserving 'Old Ironsides'" which explores Constitution's previous restorations and which will keep visitors up-to-date on the progress of her 1992-1993 Drydocking and Inspection.

Also, "A Look Below the Waterline" includes a ship modeler's shop and an artist's gallery (open Monday-Thursday), where visitors can watch artists at work. "Life at Sea" examines life on board Constitution, and where visitors can raise a sail, turn a ship's wheel and swing in a sailor's hammock. "The Great Chase" is a computer game that lets visitors act as one of Constitution's crew during a battle in the War of 1812.

Located in the Boston National Historical Park, Charlestown Navy Yard, Charlestown, it is open every day except Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Museum Store is open the same hours. Museum admission is free for children age 5 and under, and for active military; $1.50 for children ages 6-16; $2 for senior citizens and students with I.D.'s; and $3 for adults. Children under 17 accompanied by an adult are admitted free on weekends through December 31, 1992, courtesy of Papa Gino's and Schrafft's Charitable Trust.

For more information call (617) 426-1812.

DR. PAULETTE T. GEPHARDT (l), talks to parents about summer health issues at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital's recent "How to Better Summerproof Your Child" lecture.

Wild blueberries are in season

The annual wild blueberry harvest is under way in Downeast Maine and Eastern Canada. Fresh wild blueberries will be available at supermarkets and farm stands throughout New England for the next four to six weeks.

Wild blueberries are prized worldwide for their tangy sweetness. Although similar in appearance to the cultivated blueberry, the wild blueberry is smaller and is colored a richer shade of blue.

One of three berries native to North America, the wild or low-bush blueberry grows in blueberry barrens or fields in Downeast Maine and Eastern Canada.

In 17th century New England the arrival of the harvest season meant that dinner tables throughout the region would feature wild blueberry confections with names such as Grunt, Slump, Mush, Buckle and Fool, or blueberry pie.

Whatever the name, for many New Englanders, a wild blueberry dish on the table is one sign that summer is officially here. These old fashioned recipes can offer an easy dessert for an August meal.

Wild Blueberries are also available year round, frozen or canned, at fine supermarkets across the country.

Toll free number for Alzheimer's disease

The National Institute on Aging (NIA) announces the availability of the 1992 Progress Report on Alzheimer's Disease, the latest published document summarizing key findings from federally funded research studies. The report is now available by calling NIA's Alzheimer's Disease Education and Referral (ADEAR) Center's toll-free number, 1-800-438-4380.

The ADEAR Center's toll-free number provides this critical link. Health care professionals and others can call this toll-free line for information and resources about Alzheimer's disease and to order a free copy of the 1992 Progress Report on Alzheimer's Disease.

The 1992 report demonstrates a high level of activity in the area of basic and clinical research on Alzheimer's disease at the NIA and throughout the National Institutes of Health (NIH). Some of the most significant findings include:

•The identification of a specific gene mutation that may be responsible for the nerve cell death and resulting dementia of one type of familial Alzheimer's disease.

•The ability to demonstrate for the first time in live animals that the accumulation of beta-amyloid, a common brain protein, causes the nerve damage characteristic of Alzheimer's disease. Also in live animals, the identification of a protein called substance P that inhibits the destructive effects of beta-amyloid.

•The correlation between the loss of the ability to transmit messages between nerve cells (synaptic loss) and the decline in ability to think clearly and to reason.

•The indication that there are more special care units in nursing homes dedicated to individuals with Alzheimer's disease than reported in past years.

The NIA is a component of NIH, which is part of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

School Notes

From S-9

—One hundred sixty Melrose youngsters chose to spend a few weeks of their summer vacation back in school.

Held at Melrose High School, the summer enrichment program offered courses in photography, literature, computers, cooking, physical education, and more. Field trip destinations included the North Shore Music Theatre, Odion Point in Rye, New Hampshire and the Harvard Observatory.

Among the Melrose summer school staff was arts and crafts teacher Debbie Flynn, a second grade teacher in Malden.

—Wilmington North Intermediate sixth graders - along with six parents and five teachers - ended their school year with a whale watch, traveling to Gloucester where they boarded a whale research vessel for a trip to Stellwagen Bank, a rich feeding ground for humpback and other whales.

They saw as many as six humpbacks at one time, with a mother nursing its calf; and were awarded several prizes for answers to questions about whales, their habits and environments.

A month-long study skills research project on whales - navigated by study skills teacher Frank Birmingham - made them seaworthy enough for the venture. They had a whale of a time.

H & R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOL THROUGHOUT ESSEX AND MIDDLESEX COUNTIES

H & R Block, the world's largest income tax service, is offering a basic income tax course starting the week of September 14, 1992, with weekday and Saturday classes available.

During the ten-week course, students will explore all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual tax returns. Experienced H & R Block personnel will teach 1991 laws, theory and application, and carry students through the transition to the changes effective for preparation of 1992 income tax returns. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or persons wanting to increase their personal tax knowledge.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with H & R Block. Many accept employment with H & R Block because of the flexible hours available. However, H & R Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are the graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H & R Block.

Registration forms and a brochure for the Income Tax Course may be obtained by calling:

Christopher Columbus - The Discovery

by Rochelle Flynn
"Christopher Columbus - The Discovery" Starring George Corraface, Rachel Ward, Marlon Brando, Tom Selleck, Robert Davi. Directed by John Glen. Screenplay by John Briley, Cary Bates, Mario Puzo. Produced by Alexander and Ilya Salkind. Rated PG-13.

Sitting through two hours of "Christopher Columbus - The Discovery" is much like making the voyage itself.

The father and son producing team of Alexander and Ilya Salkind, they of "Superman" fame, reportedly rushed out their version of the Columbus legend before director Ridley Scott's, due in October. Without having seen it, Scott's flick, starring Gerard Depardieu, is most certainly to be the more interesting of the two.

Not that this film doesn't make a valiant effort. The costumes appear authentic and the reproductions of the Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria are quite breathtaking. With an Ernest George Corraface in the title role, you know this movie wasn't meant to seem like one of those silly studio biopics of the 1940s or 1950s. But it is sure to elicit giggles, what with Tom Selleck as King Ferdinand of Spain and a mumbling Marlon Brando as the head of the Inquisition.

Dubious casting choices aside, the chief problem with this film is John Glen's direction. Glen can't overcome his background in James Bond flicks, as this film kicks off with an action sequence in which Columbus outwits hooligans and robbers. As he grabs his stolen money from a tarted up prostitute, he actually says, "Stick to your profession, beware the Genoese and shun the devil." Staged as if for an action/adventure movie, this ill-fitting scene sets the tone for the jumble that lies ahead.

A large chunk of the movie is devoted to funding, or a lack of, as the Genoese-born explorer approaches several European Heads of State in the hope that someone will finance his seemingly insane voyage to Cathay. Columbus also had to fight the conventions of the church and the ignorance of his crew. And, if you can keep your mind from wandering during much of the film's inane dialogue, you'll notice the germ-infested rats and beginnings of slavery the explorer carted to the West Indies. But this movie needed more than a few tokens, as it sorely lacked a cool eyed, revisionist look at the old Columbus myth.

The large amounts of money up on the screen keep "Columbus" from completely bombing. Visually this film is quite a success, as the filmmakers actually traced Columbus' voyage from Spain to the West Indies. But all attention seemed to have been focussed on things, not people. How else can you explain an uncomfortable looking Selleck or the reported $5 million shelled out for a lethargic performance from Brando? Luckily, Rachel Ward is fiery as Queen Isabella. And Corraface's multi-faceted performance reveals compromise, passion and a man bound by societal ignorance, even as he tried to break down scientific fallacies.

Not that this is the flaming critical disaster of, say, Elizabeth

Taylor's version of "Cleopatra" or "The Conqueror," starring John Wayne as Genghis Khan. But there is no denying that lovely scenery, realistic costumes, and a handsome leading man cannot save a film if the script is weak and the director mired in another genre.

"Enchanted April" is an engaging look at four unhappy British women in the early 1920s who find peace of mind on an idyllic Italian vacation. This witty and wise movie is about friendship and inner healing. That it is set in a glorious locale, cast with remarkable actors and lovingly directed only adds to the script's charm. Rated PG. ***1/2

"Diggstown" is a shameless cross between "The Sting" and "Rocky." This boxing movie pulls every manipulative punch in the book, but James Woods and Louis Gossett, Jr. pull the film's disparate pieces into one rousing movie. It may lack originality, but it provides some decent, if lightweight, escapism. Rated R. **1/2

"Three Ninjas" is a truly mindless, pre-teen adventure in which three boys and their Japanese grandfather thwart a ruthless drug lord. Adults will find this unbearably silly, but the fast-paced action and child stars will endear it to kids. Rated PG. *1/2

"Stay Tuned" stars John Ritter as a couch potato who buys the TV from Hell from Jeffrey Jones. Pam Dawber is his angry wife who is sucked into televisionland with hubby and has 24 hours to make it through a series of satanic vignettes if they want to save their souls. Silly, extremely lightweight and fast-paced enough to remain mildly entertaining. Rated PG **.

"One False Move" is a low-budget, edgy road movie that rises above a plot with a wicked mix of atmosphere and fine acting. Bill Paxton is the hick Arkansas sheriff who becomes embroiled with LA detectives out to catch a band of nefarious killers. Cynda Williams is superb as a coke head who swallows her guilt and goes along for a joyless descent into murder and mayhem. Rated R *** 1/2.

"Buffy the Vampire Slayer" puts a Valley Girl hot on the trail of the Undead in Beverly Hills. All high concept and no thought, this flick is humorous in a juvenile manner, even if the joke wears thin pretty quickly. Blonde, perky Kristy Swanson is perfect as the mall doll turned slayer, and Donald Sutherland adds a much needed touch of class. Rated PG-13.**

"Death Becomes Her" is a boffo comedy about the aging process, revenge and infidelity. Meryl Streep is a mediocre actress obsessed with staying young. Isabella Rossellini is the vamp who gives her immortality - but at a high price. The eye popping special effects dominate the last half of the film, losing alcoholic Bruce Willis and vengeful Goldie Hawn in the shuffle. Still, it's fast-paced fun with great performances from all involved. Rated PG-13.***

"Honey, I Blew Up the Kids" brings back Rick Moranis as the nerdy scientist who can't keep his kids away from his work. In this sequel to "Honey I Shrunk the Kids" Moranis turns his toddler into a 100-foot giant. Not as clever as the original, which had a stronger plot, this still should entertain the kiddies. Rated PG. **

"A League of Their Own" chronicles the first year of the All American Girls Professional Baseball Team, begun during WWII when there weren't enough men to fight the war and man the diamonds. An ensemble cast made up of Geena Davis, Tom Hanks, Lori Petty, Rosie O'Donnell and Madonna do wonders with this heartfelt, if somewhat sappy story. Don't expect too much depth and you'll find this to be great summer fun. Rated PG. ***

"Unlawful Entry" stars Kurt Russell as a night club owner whose sexy school teacher wife, Madeleine Stowe, has become the fatal obsession of a demented cop, Ray Liotta. It's an interesting set-up and the cast is top notch, but this becomes just a classy horror flick with pretensions of grandeur. Although there are some palpable thrills in this picture, thanks to director Jonathan Kaplan, the plot was based in from a made-for-TV movie. Rated R. ***

"Housesitter" is an update of the kind of screwball comedy where nothing much has to make sense, as long as it's funny. Goldie Hawn plays a consummate liar who pushes her way into Steve Martin's lonely life. Hawn just moves into Martin's empty house, the one he built for Dana Delany before she dumped him. Hawn then tells everyone, including Martin's folks, that they are married. You can connect the dots from there. This is fun, frothy, and lighter than air. Rated PG. ** 1/2

"Howard's End" weaves the emotional story of two Edwardian families, one unbending and proper, the other free spirited and open. The two families are joined through marriage, resulting in some surprising changes for all parties. The film belongs to Emma Thompson as a strong, intelligent woman who brings the families together and then keeps them going. Rated PG. ****

"Sister Act" stars Whoopi Goldberg as a second-rate lounge singer forced to hide out in a convent after witnessing her gangster boyfriend plug a flunky. Maggie Smith is the indomitable Mother Superior with a calming effect on Goldberg, who in turns drags the convent into the 20th century. Upbeat and oodles of fun, this movie is worth seeing just for the gospel versions of Motown hits. Rated PG. ***1/2

Auditions in Burlington

The Burlington Players will hold auditions for the second show of their 92-93 season, Wendy Wasserstein's contemporary comedy, "Isn't it Romantic," on August 31 and September 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Park Playhouse on 1 Edgemere Ave., Burlington.

"Romantic" requires four women and four men aged 28 through late 50's. Auditions will consist of readings from the script; no prepared material is required. "Isn't it Romantic" will have ten performances November 16 through 21. For more information call (617) 272-2524.

"Isn't it Romantic" is about Janie Blumberg and Harriet Cornwall, age 28, who have recently moved back home to New York City. Janie must deal with: her mother Tasha, an almost stereotypical Jewish mother who literally dances through life; her father Simon, who usually lets Tasha have her way; Marty Sterling, a 30ish doctor who knows exactly what he wants from life, and: Vladimir, the recent Russian immigrant taxi driver that Tasha and Simon introduce. Harriet confronts problems with her mother Lillian, a highly successful business woman uncomfortable with conventional "mothering" and boss/lover Paul Stuart, 40ish, a man accustomed to winning who wants Harriet as well as the woman with whom he lives. It's a very contemporary, fast-paced, wry and witty look at relationships in the 90's by one of America's brightest and most successful writers: Karen MacDonald will direct.

The Burlington Players are also seeking people interested in technical and production jobs. There are opportunities for experienced workers as well as those who would like to learn.

For more information call the Park Playhouse at (617) 272-2524.
